humble though my home may be, The King of Glory dwells with me.

CHORUS: "For I know whom I have believed, And am persuaded that he is able To keep that which I've committed Unto him against that day.

I know not what may be my pain, My grief, my loss, my joy, or gain, But having Him my soul hath claimed, The Christ of God, "I'm not ashamed."

Chorus-"For I know whom," etc.

I know not what fond friend may go And leave me, or become my foc, But having found the friend I need, He'll ever be my friend indeed.

Chorus-"For I know whom," etc.

I know not what the way may be, The time or place He'll come for me, But little need I fear or care How life may close, or when, or where.

MARCH

Mercy 1 plead, relentless month of storms,
Aching with cold among thy shivering poor;
Remember frail and tender human forms,
Crying through nerve and vein, from sea and shore.

Have pity, stay thy hand, afflict no more.

Behold the very streams, fields, woods and sky Yearning with living myriads, join the cry,

Weepest thou not with Nature's funeral woe,

Have all thy springs of mercy frozen o'er?

Pity, with heart of ice, and head of snow,
O, March, the sorrows that thy tears could cure.
Resolve to rippling streams thy crystals bands,
To cheerful notes, attune thy dirge once more,
Enlivening all, swift to the welcoming lands,
Return sweet spring, life, health, and joy restore.

RESURRECTION.

Come with me this lovely morning, To the graveyard's sacred mound: Bring some fragrant little flower,; For the dear one 'neath the ground.

Do not bring a wild field flower— She among them never strayed; No, nor one culled from the garden, Flowers with which she never played.

Bring the little grave a flower, From the rose beside our bed; That exhaled its kindly odors, Round her little living head.

Come away with me this morning, To the graveyard's little mound; We may weep as once did Jesus, For the dear one 'neath the ground.

Not the tears of murmuring sorrow, But of mingled hope and love, Tears through which we look not downward, But through which we glance above. Tears that glisten with the sunlight, Of the day beyond the sky; Where the ones we love and cherish, Live and love, but never die.

Come away this lovely morning, To the little new-made mound: Where 'neath earth's cold shroud we laid her. Tender verdure clothes the ground.

Leaves from nature's graves respringing, Resurrection truth declare, Telling that the form there buried, Shall in beauty reappear.

Though in weakness and corruption, Mouldering now in dust it lies; Yet in glory and perfection, From the grave it shall arise.

Come with me this lovely morning, To the little grassy mound; Spring breathes resurrection lessons, Of the dear one 'neath the ground.

The forest leaves are flushed with gold, And scarlet hues, and crimson dyes, And colors rich and manifold, As sea-shells boast, or sun-set skies.

There's glory now on every hill,
And wooded dell, and glen, and vale,
And beauty margins lake and rill,
With green, and red, and yellow pale.

Come with keen eye, and dextrous hand,
With poet's genius, painters skill,
And fix these scenes that cannot stand
The coming gusts, and rain, and chill.

E'en now the wind's low moan and sigh, Seem sorrowings over dead ones nearAnd lo! those gleams in Nature's eye,
Are portents of the dying year.

Away with eager steps I haste,
From stir and strife, to scenes of calm,
To view the landscapes fair, and taste
The breeze that brings the woodland balm.

Here I may breathe a holier air,
And feel life's pulses stronger rise;
And nerve renew, to bide and bear,
By noting how the foliage dies.

With such inspiring scenes in view, Faith, hope, and courage sturdier grow; And patience learns to wait, or do, From nature's glorious dying glow.

Moons wane and wax, and wax and wane, And Time reveals perpetual round; The Summers go and come again, And Spring-times out of Winters bound.

Again we hail the Autumnal times,
When fields and woods are growing sere;
And Nature's music faintly chimes
In this grey twilight of the year.

Unnumbered tokens of decay—
Of Summer's verdure—round us spread,
Remind us that we pass away,
Shortly to mingle with the dead.

And shall the lesson not inspire
With strong intent, and firm resolves,
To kindle up the smouldering fire.
While yet the day of life revolves;

To labor for the weal of woe,
To lighten labor, lesson grief,
To sooth and cheer, where'er we go,
And lend the sorrowing relief.

Oh, let us rouse from shameful sleep,
Ere Death's cold winter drifts its snows,
And thrusting in the sickle, reap
The whitened harvest, then repose.
